

Every student is known, valued and cared for in our schools

Advocacy and support at school: Be there for your students

New resource available now on the CESE website

Advocacy at school is the support students receive from adults in the school who can provide encouragement, and who can be turned to for advice.

A recent review of research suggests that teachers and staff can ensure advocacy at school by:

- investing time in getting to know students
- talking with students about their learning and aspirations
- encouraging student voice through surveys and asking for feedback.

The Centre for Education Statistics and Evaluation (CESE) was created by the NSW Department of Education in 2012 to improve the effectiveness, efficiency and accountability of education in NSW. CESE is focused on supporting decision-making in education delivery and development with strong evidence.

For more information on supporting sense of belonging, high expectations and advocacy at school, visit education.nsw.gov.au/cese