

CHILD PROTECTION UPDATE 2016

FOR CORPORATE STAFF

Handout

Draw a line to match the scenario on the left hand side of the page to the form of abuse or neglect that might be suspected.

Scenario

Charlie, 10 yrs, is often seen out on his bike late at night, hanging out with young adults who drink and are engaging in risky behaviour.

Sam, 12 yrs, regularly absent from school on Mondays and sometimes Tuesdays, and there are weeks when he has not attended school. When anyone talks to him about this he just shrugs it off. Attempts to talk to his parents have not been successful.

Lily, 7 yrs, is a lively little girl but you are aware she has difficulties concentrating at school. It's a warm day and Lily has kept her jumper on. You suggest she takes it off as she is looking a bit hot. Reluctantly she takes her jumper off and you notice that she has red welts and bruising on her upper arms.

Rachel, 13 yrs, is found crying in the toilets. It turns out she thinks she is pregnant. When you talk to her about telling her parents, she says you cannot tell her step-father and becomes even more distressed and fearful.

Ben, 15 yrs, has been asked to direct you to the meeting room. You notice he has bruises on his face. You casually ask him how he got them. He says his dad accidentally threw something at his mum, which hit him.

Issie, 6 yrs, a quiet, anxious girl is very worried about what her mum will think of her work on display at Open Day. You overhear her mother telling Issie she is stupid and can't do anything right.

Caitlin, 10 yrs, is called "smelly" by the other kids as she has a strong body odour and smells of urine. School have given her fresh clothes and had a talk with her mum but nothing has changed, and Caitlin is increasingly ostracised by her peers.

Jo, 9 yrs, has diabetes, his health until recently has been good, however he appears very unwell at times and cannot focus on his school work. His parents seem to be very reluctant to take him to the doctor.

Suspected form of abuse or neglect

Sexual abuse or ill-treatment

Basic needs not being met (Hygiene/Clothing)

Domestic violence

Necessary medical care

Educational neglect

Basic needs not met (supervision)

Serious psychological harm

Physical abuse or ill-treatment

CHILD PROTECTION UPDATE 2016

FOR CORPORATE STAFF

Answer sheet for facilitators

Scenario

Suspected form of abuse or neglect

Charlie, 10 yrs, is often seen out on his bike late at night, hanging out with young adults who drink and are engaging in risky behaviour.

→ Basic needs not met (supervision)

Sam, 12 yrs, regularly absent from school on Mondays and sometimes Tuesdays, and there are weeks when he has not attended school. When anyone talks to him about this he just shrugs it off. Attempts to talk to his parents have not been successful.

→ Educational neglect

Lily, 7 yrs, is a lively little girl but you are aware she has difficulties concentrating at school. It's a warm day and Lily has kept her jumper on. You suggest she takes it off as she is looking a bit hot. Reluctantly she takes her jumper off and you notice that she has red welts and bruising on her upper arms.

→ Physical abuse or ill-treatment

Rachel, 13 yrs, is found crying in the toilets. It turns out she thinks she is pregnant. When you talk to her about telling her parents, she says you cannot tell her step-father and becomes even more distressed and fearful.

→ Sexual abuse or ill-treatment

Ben, 15 yrs, has been asked to direct you to the meeting room. You notice he has bruises on his face. You casually ask him how he got them. He says his dad threw something at his mum, which hit him.

→ Domestic violence

Issie, 6 yrs, a quiet, anxious girl is very worried about what her mum will think of her work on display at Open Day. You overhear her mother telling Issie she is stupid and can't do anything right.

→ Serious psychological harm

Caitlin, 10 yrs, is called "smelly" by the other kids as she has a strong body odour and smells of urine. School have given her fresh clothes and had a talk with her mum but nothing has changed, and Caitlin is increasingly ostracised by her peers.

→ Basic needs not being met (Hygiene/Clothing)

Jo, 9 yrs, has diabetes, his health until recently has been good, however he appears very unwell at times and cannot focus on his school work. His parents seem to be very reluctant to take him to the doctor.

→ Necessary medical care